Fine lines, dark circles, or sun damage?

Such delicate skin area demands the deepest renewal.

Our team of cosmetic clinicians have put together a comprehensive cosmetic eye treatment guide so you can discover how to prevent, correct and protect from the visible signs of time where the impact matters most.

Making eye contact is the first thing we do when we see someone, your eyes are what connect you with people and they are the window to your soul. They can alter how other people perceive you. Have you ever got asked “Why do you look so tired?” when you’ve got 8 hours of sleep the night before and feel perfectly rested? Or maybe you are feeling that you look perpetually annoyed or angry thanks to that persistent frown line. We all want to look as renewed as we feel and sometimes having puffy or tired eyes make us look aged and dull.

When it comes to eye treatments, there isn’t a one-fit-all approach. Our team of cosmetic experts is here to guide you and help finding the best treatment options to target your eye issues. Whether you’re hoping to banish dark circles, soften fine lines, erase sun damage, or minimize the signs of aging, these medically-led and evidence based approaches will help treat your specific skincare concern.

Top eye area complaints

Crows feet

Crow's feet are often appeared as deeper wrinkles in the corner of the eye and this is often the first signs of aging due to the loss of collagen and elasticity as we age and sun exposure. Don't let crow's feet ruin the youthfulness of your face, our professional team is here to help you through this aging process.

How can we help?

The first line approach recommended by our clinicians is a medically-prescribed skincare regimen, including Instant Effect Eye Gel, Oxygen Infusion Wash from Skin Better Science and sun protection daily.

To add on this routine the Interfuse Intensive Treatment for lines from our line of skincare products is highly recommended. On top of a daily skincare routine, anti-wrinkle injections and laser are effective non-surgical treatments to tackle crows feet wrinkles.

Sunken eyes & dark circles

How can we help?

The first line approach recommended by our clinicians is a medically-prescribed skincare regimen, including Instant Effect Eye Gel, Oxygen Infusion Wash from Skin Better Science and sun protection daily.

On top of this, non-surgical treatments such as laser and dermal fillers work well in addressing sunken eye and dark circles for some patients.

For those that require a stronger approach, a lower blepharoplasty surgery could be an option.

Dark circles make you look restless, despite a perfectly recharging 8 hours sleep night. Voluminous, hydrated and plump skin are the keys to unlocking a youthful appearance. The smallest corrections can make a world's difference, especially when it comes to your eyes. Revamp your makeup routine and say goodbye to heavy duty concealer. Gaze into the mirror and see your naturally highlighted brilliantly diamond bright eyes. Our professionals will assess your skin and determine the right treatment plan to address dark circles under the eyes.

Frown eyes

The effects of aging are inevitable. Frown lines between eyebrows - also known as 'elevens' - can make you look older than your age, this is due to the skin losing its elasticity as we age, our muscles weaken and the pull of gravity produce frown lines and wrinkles. It can also make you look like you are constantly worried or angry, which might not reflect how you are actually feeling. Frown lines treatments will give you a much soft and rested look.

How can we help?

The first line approach recommended by our clinicians is a medically-prescribed skincare regimen, including Instant Effect Eye Gel, Oxygen Infusion Wash from Skin Better Science and sun protection daily.

On top of a daily skincare routine, anti-wrinkle injections can effectively reduce the appearance of frown lines.

For dynamic lines, a small amount of dermal fillers can also be used.

Droopy eyelids

How can we help?

The first line approach recommended by our clinicians is a medically-prescribed skincare regimen, including Instant Effect Eye Gel, Oxygen Infusion Wash from Skin Better Science and sun protection daily.

On top of a daily skincare routine, depending on the level of the concern, a non-surgical chemical brow lift could be suitable.

However, a surgical approach could also be considered with a blepharoplasty surgery for a long term result.

Your eyes are the window to your soul and the focal point of your face. Open hearts and minds with brilliantly bright eyes that communicate beauty, vigor, and your big ideas. Look as energised and you feel and express yourself fully with an eyelid treatment. Taylor Clinic offer a range of solutions to get your bright eyes back.

Baggy eyes

Puffy eyes convey a tired aged appearance regardless of how energetic and well-rested you are. Swelling or puffiness under/around the eyes occur when you have an excessive amount of fluids. Get rid of those bags under the eye with our advanced technology.

Eyebrows

How can we help?

Don't let the effects of gravity control your facial expressions. Remove character lines that don't add anything to your natural character. Smooth out expression lines without sacrificing movement. Contrary to traditional lifting techniques, our signature method allows you to stay expressive and let your personality shine.

The first line approach recommended by our clinicians is a medically-prescribed skincare regimen, including Instant Effect Eye Gel, Oxygen Infusion Wash from Skin Better Science and sun protection daily.

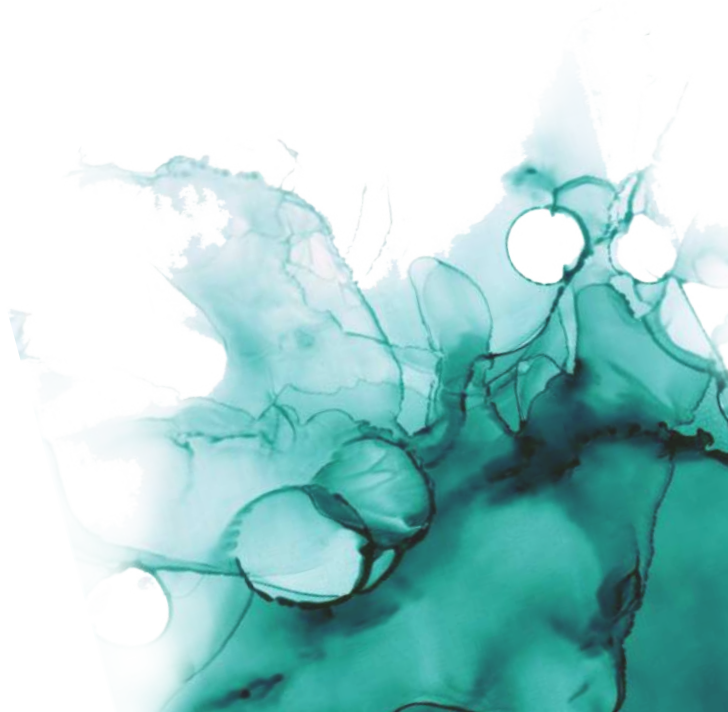

On top of a daily skincare routine, anti-wrinkle injections and dermal fillers are effective non-surgical treatments to address the ageing signs around the eyebrow area.

A surgical approach could also be considered, with an upper blepharoplasty surgery.

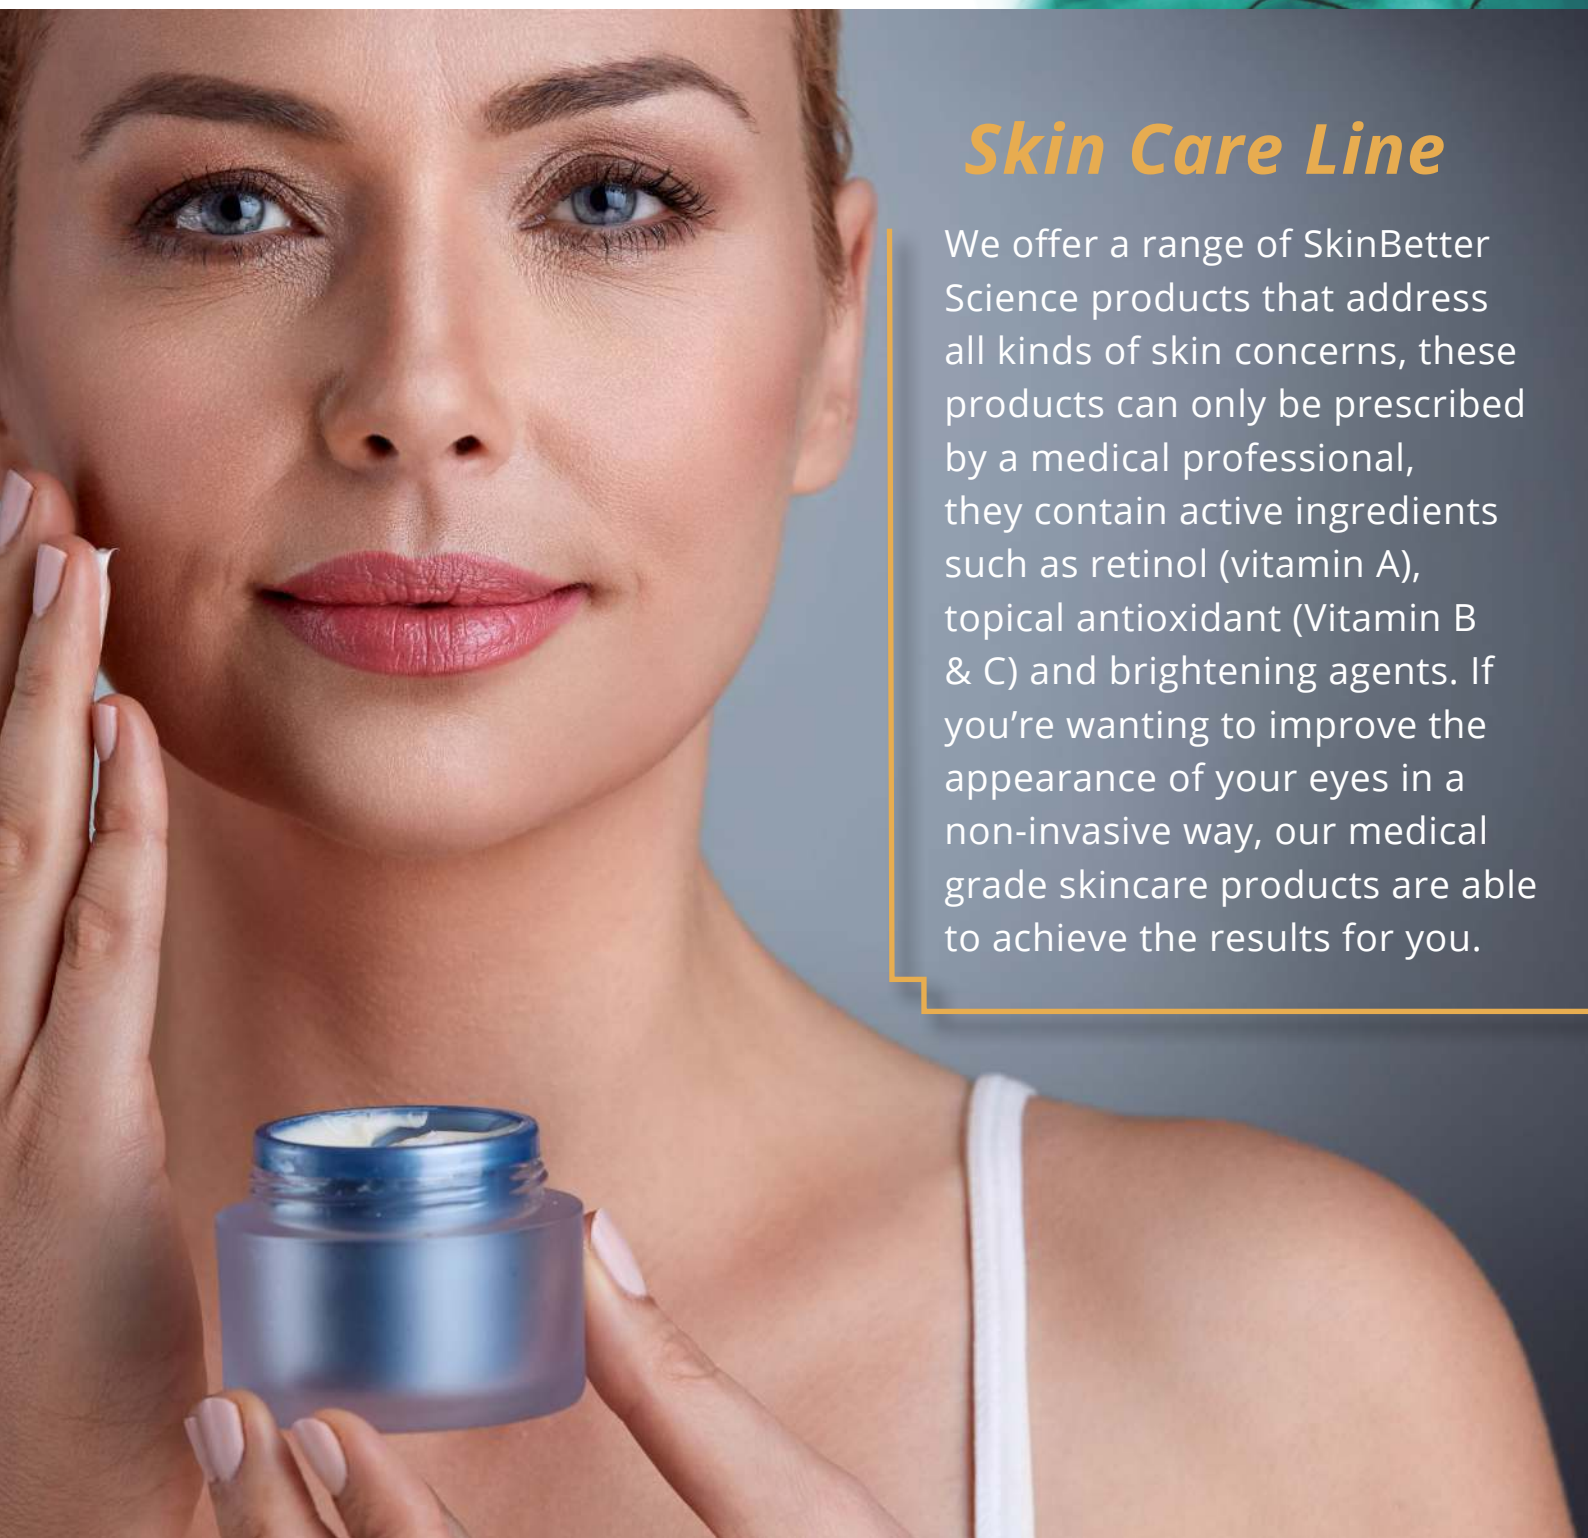

We can help you in many ways

With such a wealth of medical knowledge and experience under our roof matched with the utmost quality products, cutting edge technology and techniques, our team can deliver you a superior treatment approach for your eye concerns. Including:

Skin Care Line

We offer a range of SkinBetter Science products that address all kinds of skin concerns, these products can only be prescribed by a medical professional, they contain active ingredients such as retinol (vitamin A), topical antioxidant (Vitamin B & C) and brightening agents. If you're wanting to improve the appearance of your eyes in a non-invasive way, our medical grade skincare products are able to achieve the results for you.

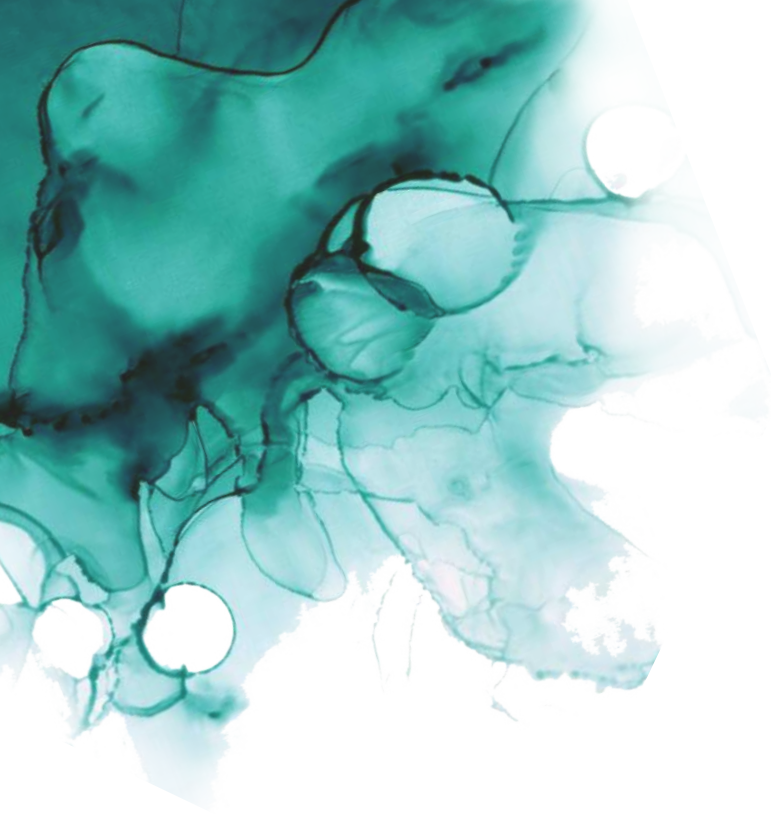

Cosmetic Injections

The smallest corrections can make a world's difference, especially when it comes to your eyes. Dermal fillers and/ or anti-wrinkle injections might be the right choice for you, as those treatments can address ageing line and as they have the ability to plump up the eye area which will reduce shadows and dullness.

Plastic Surgery

This is the perfect option if you're looking for a longer term solution, we can discuss surgical options such as blepharoplasty, brow lifts, or facelifts; all of which will have a dramatic effect on your eye area.
